Poems exploring loss, sorrow and renewal.

From Ink and Sandalwood* (1998). Cecile M. Franking $10.00

Winner of the 1999 Thorpe Menn Poetry Award for Writing Excellence. Poems remembering an extraordinary life united with—and divided by—China and America..

The Art of Making Tea* (1998). Elizabeth Jones Hanley $10.00

Images, echoes and evocative memories of a family of three generations together and their quiet life in a small town in Missouri.

Telling of Bees and Other Poems* (1998). Ronald W. McReynolds $10.00

Poems reflecting the experiences of a teacher, world traveller, gardener, jewelry craftsman, husband and father, and bee-keeper in rural Johnson County, Missouri.

Chrysanthemums I Once Thought Sweet* (1998). Judith T. Roberts $10.00

Poems about the bitter-sweet experiences of growing up and leaving and coming home again.

The Flower Growers, Poems* (1999). Robert C. Jones $10.00

Poems in homage to painters, musicians, writers, sculptors and other artists who, like Vincent van Gogh's flower growers, "have remained and will remain."

Red Silk, Poems* (1999). Maryfrances Wagner $10.00

Poems documenting post-nuclear American life, from the ravages of the Viet Nam War to loving acceptances of middle age in mid-America.

Pointing Toward Home, Poems & Song of Yasuka, Poems* (1999).

Carrie Allison & Stacey Starr $10.00

Poems about family and friendship, separation from childhood, sexuality and romantic love, in a wonderful tension of wisdom, boundlessness and caution.

Memories and Memoirs, Essays, Poems, Stories, Letters* (2000).

Sharon Kinney Hanson, editor $18.95 (Hard back, $30)

Recollections, personal letters, essays, poems, life sketches/autobiographical reflections that speak about places and people in Missouri and elsewhere.

Outcasts, Poems* (2000). Brian Daldorph $10.00

Images of our world and ourselves from singular perspectives that precisely reflect facets we've never seen before.

Uncurling, Poems* (2000). Jeanie Wilson $10.00

Poems that carry the echoes of life experience.

This Country or That* (2001). Victoria Anderson $10.00

Poems written in a voice that is American, inviting, yet implacable in its observations.

Light and Chance* (2001). Ardyth Bradley $10.00

Poems of joy set against an awareness of our fragility.

Dreaming the Bronze Girl* (2002). Serina Allison Hearn $10.00

Poems of dreams and reality that are dancing partners in an exotic Eden.

Laozi, The Way, a new translation* (2002). Liu Quixuan $10.00

A translation that will help the modern reader to see not only what was hoped for while Laozi was writing but also what is needed now.

The Voyage of the Maxed Out* (2002). Brian Nold $10.00

A hair-raising account of a trip down the Missouri and Mississippi Rivers on a seventeen-foot sailboat—and all the crazy and unexpected things that happened along the way.

The Graveyard Picnic* (2003). William Ford $10.00

Poems that piece together the small details that "keep the living front and center."

Madam Sheriff* (2003). Jo Kurtz $10.00

A narrative based on events Jo Kurtz witnessed in her career as a deputy sheriff.

Poems of Witness, 1941-1945* (2003). Jo Kurtz $10.00

Poems about the war years, 1941-1945, seen through the eyes, and remembered through the voice of a young girl.

Night Watch* (2005). John Mark Eberhart $10.00

Poems that aspire to the universal through the particular, melding a sense of place with a passion for music.

Beyond the Shaded Sanctuary* (2005). Deborah Mann $10.00

Poems that evoke the emotions through the elegant simplicity of powerful images.

Water and Rock, A Collection of Poems, Memories and Inventions from the Warrensburg Writers Circle* (2005). Robert C. Jones, editor $10.00

Pear Season & The Boy Who Ate Dandelions* (2006). Bill Bauer $10.00

An impressive range of poems that "literally make your neck hairs rise."

The Door Into the Dream* (2006). Jeanie Wilson and Thomas Zvi Wilson $10.00

Poems that redefine, in the best sense, both poetry and marriage.
